

God is clearly telling us through our Scripture readings this weekend that all are invited. So, the question becomes how are they invited? How does someone living in the world come to know they are invited to God's table? It is chiefly through how we live our lives, but more importantly God's invitation is personally carried to those invited.

It is our responsibility not only to come to the feast prepared every Sunday, as preparation for the eternal feast in Heaven, but also to invite those we know to be there next to us.

I recall a time in my family when all us children in my family came home from college the invitation by my parents was a simple one, those that go to Mass go out to breakfast. If you have the time and resources, please invite someone you know to come to mass and then go out to breakfast afterwards.

Share the beauty of our faith, let God use your families and friendships to invite someone back to Mass, or to experience Mass for the first time.

May the Love, Peace and Grace of God be with you, Fr. Adam
