

In our pride we want to say we are justified in holding onto our anger, of not forgiving. We build a wall around our heart and spend so much energy and time holding onto the hurt that there is less space in our heart for love. Let it go, don't drown in anger. Look to your relationship with God and recognize He has a right to feel that way about us every single day.

It all begins with a simple question; how much forgiveness and patience does God pour out on you? It should be the first and only question we ask ourselves when we are in the situation to forgive or show patience. We are to radiate Christ, like an old radiator that is stuck on full steam! That is what we are given as Children of God, His infinite patience, love, and forgiveness. That is what He expects us to show others.

Does this set us up to be used or seen as weak? Yes.

Did they treat Christ the same way? Yes.

May the Love, Peace and Grace of God be with you,

Fr. Adam
